

Figure 14. Tensleep Sandstone in western Dry Head Canyon. Light-colored sandstones are dune facies; brown sandstone is limey or dolomitic sandstone. This is the location of measured sections Dry Head 3 and 4 (Lopez and others, 2007). Upper panoramic photo shows areas of vertically stacked dune sandstones in the west (left) and in the east (right) with little dune, light-colored sandstone in the central part of the photograph. In the lower photographs the stacked dune sandstones are shown in greater detail and are outlined in light blue.
